3.5 AGENDA

3.5.1 Preparation

A detailed Agenda for each meeting shall be prepared at the direction of the CIA President, and shall be sent by the FAI Secretariat to all CIA members, as defined in IR para. 2.1, with the notice convening the meeting. The CIA Plenary Meeting cannot make final decisions on items that do not appear on the agenda

3.5.2 Proposals for Agenda items

CIA members may submit for consideration by the CIA President proposals for items to be included in the Agenda. The written proposals, sufficiently detailed for the issues to be understood, shall reach the CIA President no later than seventy-five days before the date set for the meeting. Such a proposal may not be rejected without consultation between the member and the CIA President.

3.5.3 Reports

Reports, other than Subcommittee reports, pertaining to Agenda items should as far as possible be submitted to members in writing with the Agenda. If this is not possible, they shall at the latest be submitted to the members before the start of the meeting. These reports shall be considered as read, and each reporting member shall have a right to three minutes verbal presentation time.

3.6 PROCEDURES

3.6.1 Order of business

The order of business shall meet the convenience of the meeting and any visitors. The Chair has discretion to suggest alteration of the order of business if there is good reason for it. He shall explain the reason and ask the agreement of the meeting before doing so.

3.6.2 Approval of previous minutes

Previous minutes shall be considered as read and the President shall ask if the minutes are a true record. He shall allow discussion and if necessary rule on any amendments requested only by those who were present. He shall then ask for a proposer and seconder for the adoption of the minutes.

3.6.2.1 Discussion of matters arising

Discussion of matters arising shall be confined strictly to minor tidying up and reporting back, and shall not be allowed until it has been agreed that the minutes are a correct record and have been signed as such. Major items shall be placed separately on the Agenda and shall be discussed in their proper place.

3.6.3 Any other business

Any item not on the Agenda may be discussed only if agreed to by at least two thirds of the delegates present, and a vote on such an item shall be valid only if at least half of the vote carrying members are present.

The Chair shall ask the members near the start of the meeting to give written notice of any items they wish to raise.

3.7 MOTIONS

3.7.1 Proposing and Seconding

Decision-making business shall be conducted exclusively by means of motions.

Only Motions on items included in the agenda shall be discussed, and then only if they are first introduced to the meeting by a vote-carrying member or the Chair. Motions should be reduced to writing and read to the meeting before a vote is taken. Unless a motion is proposed by the Chair, motions shall be required to be supported by a second vote-carrying member before being accepted for discussion. If a motion cannot find a "seconder" it is automatically lost.

Approved or passed motions are transmuted into "resolutions".

3.7.2 Withdrawal

When a motion has been properly proposed and seconded, it becomes the property of the meeting and the proposer may not withdraw his own motion without the unanimous agreement of the meeting.

3.7.3 Right of reply

The proposer or mover of a motion shall have a right of reply to the debate before a vote is taken. However, he must not introduce new matter and his remarks must be confined to genuine replies to the points made in the debate.

3.7.4 Amendments

Changes to motions, either by addition, removal or substitution of words, shall only be made in the form of amendments.

Amendments shall only be discussed if they are introduced to the meeting by a vote-carrying member or the Chair. Amendments should be reduced to writing and read to the meeting before a vote is taken.

Unless an amendment is proposed by the Chair, amendments shall be required to be supported by a second vote-carrying member before being accepted for discussion. If an amendment cannot find a "second" it is automatically lost.

The proposer of the motion subject to the amendments shall have the right to speak against or accept amendments to his motion. Wrecking amendments shall not be allowed to be put before the meeting.

Amendments must be discussed and resolved before the original motion is discussed. If there are more than one proposed amendment, the Chair shall decide which amendments to accept for discussion and what order to discuss them in. As a guide, amendments that would produce the least change should be resolved first.

An amended motion, called "substantive motion", shall be voted on as a whole after all amendments have been dealt with.

3.7.5 Reports

Reports made to the meeting shall be submitted to the members in advance, and may be introduced and explained, at the Chair's discretion, by the appropriate person.

After presentation of the report, the Chair shall invite questions on it. After any questions and discussion, a motion shall be called for to accept, table, refer back or reject the report.

3.8 RULES OF DEBATE

3.8.1 The Chair must be obeyed

All that is done is subject to the direction and decision of the Chair who shall have overall authority.

3.8.2 Right to speak

Only the Chair and Delegates shall have a right to speak, but the Chair may specifically permit others attending to speak. A Delegate may give specific permission in each case to other persons of his country to speak.

Speakers may be allowed to speak more than once on each motion or amendment but must stop speaking when requested to do so by the Chair. The Chair may also establish rules about length of speeches.

3.8.3 Members must only speak when invited by the Chair

Only one speaker shall be allowed to address the meeting at a time. Members wishing to speak shall raise a hand to let the Chair know their intention. The Chair shall indicate to the meeting in what order the members wishing to speak will be called.

3.8.4 Speaker to address the Chair

All speakers must address everything they say to the Chair, and not to one another.

3.8.5 Declaration of interest

If any member of the meeting has an interest in the outcome of an item, he should declare it before discussion of that item starts and obey the ruling given.

Having declared an interest, he should not speak unless invited, and should leave the room during the voting proceedings. If the Chair has an interest, he should leave the Chair in favor of a deputy during the discussion and follow the other rules.

3.9 PROCEDURAL POINTS AND MOTIONS

3.9.1 Procedural Points

A member believing the procedures being followed are not correct may, by raising a procedural point, express his views to the meeting. The procedural points include:

- Point of order

A point of order may be raised by any member at any time and shall take immediate precedence over other business. It shall only be raised if something is being done wrongly that could invalidate the proceedings. It shall not be used as a disguised attempt to interfere with the content of what is being said. A member raising a point of order should do so loudly and clearly as soon as the point comes to his notice. The Chair should then stop the proceedings and invite the member to state briefly and clearly what appears to be wrong. The Chair will then rule on the point.

- Point of information

A point of information may be raised by any member who believes he has factual information, and not an opinion, which will materially add to or correct what the current speaker is trying to say.

The Chair may refuse to accept the point, or ask if the speaker wishes to take it, in which case the speaker may give way or not as he chooses. The point should be made very briefly.

- Point of personal explanation

A point of personal explanation may be raised by a member who believes the current speaker is misrepresenting something he has done or said. The Chair should accept the making of such a point, which should be made as factually and briefly as possible.

3.9.2 Procedural Motions

A member believing the procedures being followed are not correct may, by proposing a procedural motion, express his views to the meeting. If the motion is upheld, the meeting must accept it. The procedural motions include:

- 'That the member be no longer heard'

This motion is the most extreme way to stop the current speaker, if he is felt to be seriously damaging the proceedings, and should never be used merely to try to silence opposition.

If the Chair feels the motion is improper, he may refuse to accept it. If it is accepted, it shall not be debated, but voted on at once.

- 'That the meeting do proceed to the next business'

This motion seeks to say that the current item has been talked about long enough and is no longer fruitful. If passed, it shall have the effect of shelving the current motion, which may not be voted on or discussed further at that meeting.

- 'That the question be now put'

This motion is the common way of saying that the meeting has had enough debate on an item and should now vote on it. If it is moved during discussion of an amendment, it applies only to the amendment, not to the original motion. It may be moved at any time, and if it is seconded it must be put, without discussion, to the vote. If the motion is carried, the vote on the original amendment or motion must then be taken. If the motion is lost, it cannot be moved again for a reasonable period of time.

- 'That the debate be now adjourned'

This motion seeks to terminate discussion on the current motion without a vote. If it is moved without a date for further debate, the discussion is shelved, and it should be put to the vote without discussion. If a date or future meeting is specified, it may be debated briefly before the vote.

3.10 VOTING RIGHTS

3.10.1 Delegates and Alternate Delegates

Subject to the provisions of FAI Statutes and By-Laws, each Delegate to the CIA shall have one vote. In case the Delegate is unable to exercise this right, and subject to the provisions, the Alternate Delegate may vote on behalf of the Delegate

3.10.2 Proxies

If no Alternate Delegate is available, and if no substitute has been appointed under the provisions of FAI Statutes and By-Laws, a proxy may be given to one of the other CIA Delegates except to the Commission President who shall not have the right to cast proxy votes. All proxies must be given in writing and be signed by the President or Secretary of the FAI Member concerned. A Delegate may vote on behalf of only one other Member of the FAI

3.10.3 President

The CIA President shall not take part in any vote, except in the event of a tie in two successive votes, where he shall cast a deciding vote without appeal

3.10.4 Secretary

The CIA Secretary, if not a Delegate, shall have no voting rights

3.11 VOTING PROCEDURES

3.11.1 Prevoting

Any kind of prevoting (e.g., by post) shall be prohibited.

3.11.2 Decisions

Unless otherwise specified, decisions shall be taken on an absolute majority vote.

Absolute majority is “more than half of the votes belonging to Members present or represented”. This means that to achieve this majority you need at least one vote more than half of the eligible votes.

Majority (or simple majority) is “more than half of the votes cast by eligible votes present”. This means that you only need at least one vote more than half of the number of votes cast by those present.

3.11.3 Non secret Voting Methods

At the Chair's discretion, the following voting methods may be used:

- 'On the nod'

When the Chair believes there is no opposition, he may use this method of voting by asking the meeting 'All in favor?', 'Any one against?', and declare the motion passed unless there is a dissenting voice. In this case the 'Show of hands' method shall be used.

- 'Show of hands'

When the Chair believes there is opposition, he shall use this method of voting and count, after asking the meeting 'All in favor?', 'Any one against?' and 'Abstentions?', the Aye's, No's and Abstentions.

If there is any doubt as to who is entitled to vote, the Chair may require a show of some identifying document to be distributed to vote carrying members only.

If the vote is close or the result declared is disputed, the Chair should choose one pair of tellers, if possible from known supporters of each side of the question.

3.11.4 Secret ballot

A secret ballot shall be compulsory when requested by the provisions in the FAI Statutes and By-Laws, or by any one of the Delegates or their representatives attending the meeting

A secret ballot always requires the Chair to set up a counting committee of at least two persons approved by the meeting by the 'On the nod' voting method.

In order to guarantee anonymity, identical ballots shall be distributed to vote carrying Delegates, and any ballot placed in the ballot box and marked so that the voter can be identified shall be considered invalid. In the case of elections, ballots that name persons not standing as candidates shall also be considered as void.

Any unmarked ballot placed in the ballot box shall be counted as an abstention.

In the event of a tie or a disputed count, and unless otherwise specified, a second vote shall be taken immediately.
